

The process of applying for a visa or passport at the embassy is difficult and can also become costly and time-consuming. Sometimes instructions can appear vague and opaque, so it is appropriate to use someone with expertise in multiple areas. However, it is best to know some of the tips before coming to the employee concerned or the immigration agency.